

Polling Methodological note – 23.5.2017

The Kantar TNS Omnibus interviewed a representative sample of 1,200 adults in Great Britain between the 18th May and 22nd May 2017. All interviews were conducted as online self-completion. The Kantar TNS Omnibus uses the Lightspeed access panel as its sample source.

The data was weighted to match population totals for age, gender, working status, 2015 General Election voting patterns, 2016 EU referendum voting patterns, education, region, and likelihood to vote in the next General Election. Further details on the weighting are given on page two.

Since our previous poll, we have made a change to our headline voting intention. If an individual is planning to vote Green or UKIP but lives in a constituency where a candidate from the party of their choice is not standing, their voting intention has been reallocated to their second preference (as given at “Otherparties”). Without this change the headline voting intentions would have been Conservative (42%), Labour (34%), Lib Dems (9%) and UKIP (5%).

Voting intentions

The voting intention figures provided aim to show the current political opinion of the nation rather than to accurately predict the outcome of the next General Election.

After the demographic and past political weighting a Likelihood to Vote (LTV) Model based on data from respondents that participated in our polls immediately prior to the 2015 general election and immediately after the election has been applied to the voting intention figures.

Margin of error

The figures are estimates based on a sample of the population of Great Britain; this means that there is a degree of uncertainty around each estimate. On the assumption that – conditional on the weights - the sample is practically equivalent to a random sample, the survey estimates have a margin of error of up to ± 3 percentage points. This uncertainty means that it is important that each individual poll is not viewed in isolation.

Weighting

Weights have been applied to the sample to ensure that it is representative of the general public in Great Britain aged 18+. The sources for the population totals are provided in each table.

Likelihood to Vote in General Election

We have estimated the likelihood that each respondent will vote in the next General Election. This value is based on respondents' stated intention to vote, their age and whether they voted in the last general election. The expected population turnout has been included as a population total in the weighting matrix. This turnout has been estimated based on the relationship between sample and population turnout rates in the 2015 general election.

	Unweighted percentage	Weighted percentage
Estimated turnout if General Election were to be held tomorrow	85%	67%

The model was developed using data from respondents that participated in Kantar Public (at the time TNS UK) polls immediately prior to the 2015 general election and immediately after the election.
